(b) The fund's expenses are based on estimated expenses expected to be incurred for the fiscal year ending October 31, 2010. (c) Eagle Asset Management, Inc. of that class' average daily net assets, Class I annual operating expenses exceed 0.60% of that class' average daily net assets, Class R-3 annual operating expenses exceed 1.15% of that class' average daily net assets, and Class R-5 annual operating expenses exceed 0.60% of that class' average daily net assets, through February 28, 2011. Expense example | This example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds. The example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the fund's operating expenses remain the same. Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on these assumptions your costs would be:

Share Class	Year 1	Year 3	Year 5	Year 10
Class A	$459	$809	$1,164	$1,990
Class C	$168	$685	$1,119	$2,410
Class I	$61	$362	$520	$1,155
Class R-3	$117	$533	$813	$1,779
Class R-5	$61	$362	$482	$1,073

Portfolio turnover | The fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when fund shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in Annual fund operating expenses or in the Expense example, affect the fund's performance.

Principal investment strategies | During normal market conditions, the fund seeks to achieve its objective by investing at least 80% of its net assets (plus the amount of any borrowings for investment purposes) in a portfolio of U.S. and foreign investment grade fixed income instruments of varying maturities. Investment grade is defined as securities rated [BBB-] or better by Standard & Poor's Rating Services or an equivalent rating by at least one other nationally recognized statistical rating organization or, for unrated securities, those that are determined to be of equivalent quality by the fund's Portfolio Managers. The average portfolio duration of the fund is expected to vary and may generally range anywhere from two to seven years based upon economic and market conditions. The fund's strategy is to actively allocate assets among market sectors. The fund expects to invest in a variety of fixed income securities including, but not limited to:

- corporate debt securities of U.S. and non-U.S. issuers, including corporate commercial paper;
- bank certificates of deposit;
- debt securities issued by states or local governments and their agencies;
- obligations of non-U.S. Governments and their subdivisions, agencies and government sponsored enterprises;
- obligations of international agencies or supranational entities (such as the European Union);
- obligations issued or guaranteed by the U.S. Government and its agencies;
- mortgage-backed securities and asset-backed securities;
- commercial real estate securities; and
- floating rate instruments.

In addition, the fund may invest a portion of its assets in lower-rated corporate bonds and other fixed income securities that focus on delivering high income.

Principal risks | The greatest risk of investing in this fund is that you could lose money. The values of most debt securities held by the fund may be affected by changing interest rates and by changes in the effective maturities and credit ratings of these securities. For example, the values of debt securities in the fund's portfolio generally will decline when interest rates rise and increase when interest rates fall. As a result, the fund's net asset value ("NAV") may also increase or decrease. Investments in this fund are subject to the following primary risks and these risks are further explained in the statutory prospectus under "Additional Information on Investment Strategies" and "Additional Information on Risks."

- Call risk is the possibility that, as interest rates decline, issuers of callable bonds may call fixed income securities with high interest rates prior to their maturity dates;
- Credit risk arises if an issuer of a fixed income security is unable to meet its financial obligations or goes bankrupt;
- Foreign security risk is the risk of instability in currency exchange rates, political unrest, economic conditions or foreign law changes;
- Government Sponsored Enterprises ("GSE") (which are obligations issued by agencies and instrumentalities of the U.S. Government) risk is due to investments in GSEs have variations in the level of support they receive from the U.S. Government and may not be backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government;
- High-yield security risk results from investments in below investment grade bonds, which have a greater risk of loss of money, are susceptible to rising interest rates and have greater volatility;
- Inflation risk is the risk that high rates of inflation or changes in the market's inflation expectations may adversely affect the market value of inflation-sensitive securities;
- Interest rate risk is the risk that the value of a fund's investments in fixed income securities will fall when interest rates rise. The effect of increasing interest rates is more pronounced for any intermediate-term or longer-term fixed income obligations owned by the fund;
- Issuer and market risk is the risk that market conditions or other events that impact specific fixed-income issuers will have an adverse effect on the fund's yield;
- Liquidity risk is the possibility that, during times of widespread market turbulence, trading activity in certain securities may be significantly hampered, which may reduce the returns of the fund because it may be unable to sell the illiquid securities at an advantageous price or time; and

- Mortgage- and asset-backed security risk, which is possible in an unstable or depressed housing market, arises from the potential for mortgage failure or premature repayment of principal.
- Investing in other investment companies and exchange-traded funds ("ETFs") carries with it the risk that by investing in another investment company or ETF the fund, and therefore its shareholders, indirectly bear the fund's proportionate share of the fees and expenses paid by shareholders of the other investment company or ETF, in addition to the fees and expenses fund shareholders directly bear in connection with the fund's own operations;
